Toward Common Cause

Mel Chin, LaToya Ruby Frazier, Fazal Sheikh

July 17–October 24, 2021

As part of Toward Common Cause, the Hyde Park Art Center presents artworks by Mel Chin, LaToya Ruby Frazier, and Fazal Sheikh that foreground the environmental racism and infrastructural inequalities (including exposure to industrial pollution and limited access to healthcare, food, and clean drinking water), which are shared by disinvested and disenfranchised communities across the globe.

The latest iteration of a thirteen-year project that raises awareness of lead contamination and its impact upon children, Mel Chin's Chicago Fundred Initiative: A Bill for IL invites individuals to create their own "Fundred," a form of creative currency that affirms the right of each maker to equal protection against a pervasive and insidious environmental hazard present in water, soil, and paint.

LaToya Ruby Frazier completed Flint is Family over the course of five months in Flint, Michigan. Combining Frazier's photographs with voice over by lifelong Flint resident Shea Cobb, the film displayed here documents Cobb's lived experience of the now infamous Flint water crisis.

The combination of landscape photography and ground-truthing is central to Fazal Sheikh's Desert Bloom series, part of the artist's Erasure Trilogy. It is also central to Sheikh's Conflict

Shoreline, a project created in conjunction with Eyal Weizman, that examines the connection between desertification, colonialism, and the displacement of Bedouin communities from ancestral lands in Israel's Negev desert.
